Bug #940368

Attachments - Icon for supported types

As a user, I want to see icons that represent the type of the attachment I received when viewing my attachment list. This will let me know at a glance, and before I download the content, if there is a viewer for the attachment that I have received. The icons should be representative of the content type. For example; a gallery icon for an image or a music player icon for an MP3.

When viewing the attachment list, pictures, music and video types are identified by a unique and representative icon. All unsupported attachments and attachments that have non-native viewers would have the standard attachment icon.

 Icon design should follow what visual team proposed.
